

Law firms announce alliance

September 4, 2008

Two Miami-based law firms, Diaz Reus and Cordero & Associates, announced a strategic alliance aimed at boosting their international and immigration practices.

The alliance will strengthen Diaz Reus' existing immigration practice, while providing Cordero with bigger geographical reach broader services, according to a press release.

Diaz Reus has about 20 attorneys, while Cordero has five.

"We have a long-standing professional relationship with Luis Cordero and Cordero & Associates, and have always been impressed with their professionalism and dedication," said Michael Diaz, managing partner of Diaz Reus. "The increasing demand for immigration services by our current client base makes it a necessity to offer the highest-quality immigration work, and we are confident that this partnership will help us achieve this objective."

Luis Cordero said the alliance is a "natural fit." His firm provides immigration, nationality and consular legal services to corporate and individual clients throughout the U.S., Latin America and Europe from its Miami headquarters, as well as offices in New York; Washington, D.C.; and Buenos Aires, Argentina.

Diaz Reus is an international law firm with offices in Latin America, Europe, Asia and the Middle East. The firm's lawyers focus on international trade and business transactions, as well as complex commercial, civil, securities, antitrust and criminal litigation, and arbitration matters.
